Dear Friends,

As officially announced few days ago, in light of the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic and to ensure the safety of participants, the World's Poultry Science Association and the Organizing Committee have announced the decision to postpone of one additional year the World's Poultry Congress initially planned for 2020. Previously scheduled for 8 to 12 August 2021, it will take place on 2022 from 7 to 11 August.

This decision has also affected the scheduling of other WPSA symposia such as ESPN planned by our branch from 5 to 8 September 2022, in Rimini. In order to avoid overlapping with WPC in 2022, we have promptly reacted in strict cooperation with European Federation and WG2 members and we are now able to announce that ESPN will take place at the same venue, Palacongressi in Rimini from 21 to 24 June, 2023.

Our Branch would like to thank VET International and Palacongressi of Rimini for their cooperation and understanding during this time. Despite this difficult situation, we also much appreciate sponsors and partners that are confirming their support to our event. Of course, we will work hard during next months to ensure the postponed edition of the 23rd edition of ESPN is a success.

We are very much looking forward to welcoming you to Rimini.

On behalf of the Board of Italian Branch of WPSA
Martino Cassandro (President)
